Repeat the cycle for as long as you wish. The issue I thought you were talking about is having two machines on the same LAN. In this case, two full nodes will introduce network issues like syncing problems. Loading binh lake 92 says Good afternoon. I would like to farm or create my plots from two different computers located on different networks, but then transfer the plots to the main computer with a portable USB. I understand that this is possible simply by installing chia on the new pc, importing the same private key and then transferring the parcels to the original pc, right? Farm or Ranch is just what you prefer to call your property. Most City people who move to the country for the first time in their lives, that buy a small piece of land even as small as 2 acres call their place a farm and or ranch. Calling it a farm or ranch for those is more of a personal/emotional word. "Homestead/Homesteading" is completely different. Homestead is wherever you live. The number of acres isn't necessarily the issue, but rather the purpose behind it. I get a big kick out of people that have 1 or 2 acres, but 2 goats in a brush pile isn't ranching! Two horses on 3 acres isn't a "farm," it's a hobby! Save Share. BUYING A COMPUTER Listening Assistant: Do you need any help? Paul: Um, yes, we're looking for a Mac computer.
